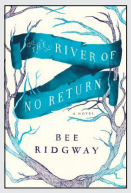
Other Indie Favorites



The River of No Return: A Novel, by Bee Ridgeway (Dutton, $27.95) "This romp in time has it all! There's a dashing hero, several feisty heroines, some really nasty bad guys, and plenty of mystery, suspense, humor, and romance as Ridgeway navigates a plausible route along the River of Time that is filled with paradoxes and switchbacks. A must for fans of Gabaldon's Outlander and Harkness' A Discovery of Witches." —Annie Leonard, The Next Chapter, Knoxville, IA

The World's Strongest Librarian: A Memoir of Tourette's, Faith, Strength, and the Power of Family, by Josh Hanagarne (Gotham, $26) "Resplendent with the intelligence that comes from accumulated experience, seasoned with sudden and delightful humor, and written with great sensitivity, Hanagarne's memoir is one of this spring's best surprises. It is not simply a love letter to anyone who has built a life around books, but also a moving autobiographical work of a gentle giant who refuses to let his sense of wonder about the world be displaced by his challenges. Highly recommended!" —Aaron Cance, The King's English Bookshop, Salt Lake City, UT

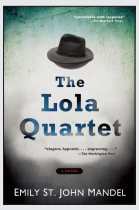
Another Indie Favorite



The Lola Quartet: A Novel, by Emily St. John Mandel (Unbridled Books, $16) "In her latest, St. John Mandel shows how relationships formed in high school, so often fraught with drama, can ebb and flow and fade and come back to haunt. Among her characters, the perception of what's important and the potential impact of actions varies widely, and something as seemingly insignificant as a photograph can become riddled with layers of meaning, differing for each person who sees it. The writing is taut, the characters well wrought, and St. John Mandel's characteristic infusions of moral ambiguity and complexity remind us, as good novels should, of what it means to be human." —Emily Pullen, WORD, Brooklyn, NY

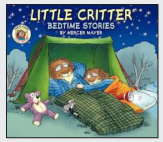
Another Indie Favorite for Ages 4 to 8



Little Critter: Bedtime Stories, by Mercer Mayer (HarperFestival, $11.99) "Mayer's Little Critter books are my go-to titles when people don't know what picture books they're looking for. Many of them exclaim that they remember and love these books, and the rest fall in love on the spot. Little Critter has been the catalyst to bring many children to reading, and this boxed set of six of his favorite adventures makes the perfect gift." —Diana Portwood, Bob's Beach Books, Lincoln City, OR
