Beat the Reaper

A Novel, by Josh Bazell

“Josh Bazell’s story of a young Manhattan emergency room doctor with an unusual past goes down like a good Bloody Mary with a powerful kick. The briskly paced thriller offers an entertaining plot, quirky characters, and a shocking ending that will haunt the reader for a long while.”

Amy Pierson, Toad Hall Bookstore, Rockport, MA

Sing Them Home

by Stephanie Kallos

“When a tornado dips into Emlyn Springs, Nebraska, it swoops up Hope Jones and never sets her down. Decades later, her grown children are still looking ... for the lives left incomplete. This epic moves expertly between the pre- and post-tornado years, and among the three siblings and the townspeople. As in her debut novel, Broken For You, Stephanie Kallos carefully weaves a complex tale featuring quirky, sympathetic characters.”

The Little Giant of Aberdeen County

A Novel, by Tiffany Baker

“Truly Plaiice is definitely larger-than-life—in body and in her personality. Motherless from birth, with a perfect sister, Truly’s life is mostly a disaster. Almost like a fairy tale, this book has it all—giants; wicked (sort of) stepmothers; of course, and magic. How Truly makes sense of her life and finds a place in a world that just doesn’t seem to have room for her makes for one splendid book.”

Two Rivers

A Novel, by T. Greenwood

“The Vietnam war, discrimination, and family secrets combine in this story of forgiveness and redemption. Greenwood effortlessly balances tenderness and grit, resulting in a moving portrait of Harper Montgomery’s efforts to make good on past actions and regain a sense of integrity.”

Still Alice

A Novel, by Lisa Genova

"This wonderful debut novel tells the story of 50-year-old Harvard professor Alice Howland as she grapples with early-onset Alzheimer's disease. Lisa Genova's writing style, and her compelling story, will leave you thinking of, and wanting to talk about, Alice after finishing this powerful, beautiful work."

The Book of Unholy Mischief

A Novel, by Elle Newmark

"The Book of Unholy Mischief is a delicious thriller set in Venice in 1498. Luciano is a street kid — using his wits and his friends to survive until a master chef literally plucks him from the street and takes him to live in the doge's kitchen. There, Luciano learns about food, life, and integrity—and also about a mysterious book. The quest for the book and surviving its impact bring chills and thrills in this fantastic novel."

Tinkers,

by Paul Harding

"This debut novel is a slim treasure that, through the lives of a New England father and his son, quietly takes on nothing less than the measure of a life and the sublime and fearful notes that make it up. Harding lifts the face off small moments in quiet lives with a language both heartbreaking and exhilarating."

Couch

by Benjamin Parzybok

"This funny novel of furniture moving gone awry is a magical realism quest for modern times. Parzybok's touching story explores the aimlessness of our culture, a society of jobs instead of callings, replete with opportunities and choices but without the philosophies and vocations we need to make meaningful decisions."

The Piano Teacher

A Novel, by Janice Y.K. Lee

"Janice Y.K. Lee makes a powerful entry into the literary world with this lush, intriguing novel of Hong Kong on the edge of World War II and, then, its aftermath. Creating characters as exotic and mysterious as the story's locale, she portrays a society that was lost, a facade that eventually brought horrific costs to most of its members."

Miles From Nowhere

by Nami Mun

"It's New York in the '80s, and Joon is a teenage Korean immigrant living in the Bronx who is now on the run. Rarely does a first novel blaze across our dark night with the brilliance and fury of lightning—but Mun's Miles From Nowhere is just that electric. A debut to cheer."

Lucky Billy

A Novel About Billy the Kid by John Vernon

"In John Vernon's compelling novel, the bright, brief flame of Billy the Kid's life illuminates all the excess and anxiety of the Wild West itself. From our first glimpse of him to the pathos of his final descent into paranoia, Billy disturbs and seduces us, and Vernon's haunting tale pursues us long after we've closed the book."

The Last Stand of Fox Company

A True Story of U.S. Marines in Combat, by Bob Drury and Tom Clavin

"Another great book from the authors who gave us Halsey's Typhoon. Their latest effectively captures the savagery, command mistakes, courage, and tenacity of a company of Marines and those who supported them during the Korean War."
