Other Indie Favorites

Gone, by Mo Hayder (Atlantic Monthly Press, $24) "Mo Hayder's gritty, intense thriller series featuring detectives Jack Caffery and Flea Marley is a must for anyone who likes breakneck timing and detectives who walk on the dark side. In Gone, an apparent carjacking turns into a kidnapping, then becomes even more sinister. While the detectives race against time to find the perpetrator before he strikes again, dark events from Flea's past threaten to overwhelm them both." —Carol Schneck, Schuler Books & Music, Okemos, MI

The Pioneer Woman: Black Heels to Tractor Wheels—A Love Story, by Ree Drummond (Morrow, $25.99) "Our favorite Okie is back with her own story of how she came to be Marlboro Man's lovely wife instead of a Chicago attorney. She writes in such a friendly humorous style, you'll be forgiven for thinking you're reading a letter from your new best friend or oldest sister. Now to try the recipes!" —Patricia Worth, River Reader, Lexington, MO

Another Indie Favorite for Teen Readers

Plain Kate, by Erin Bow (Arthur A. Levine Books, $17.99) "Plain Kate is a gifted carver in a world where talent is perceived as witchcraft. When her father and many townspeople die of a flu, Plain Kate is forced to live on her own. To escape being burned as a witch, she trades her shadow for travel gear and her heart's desire. I was hooked till the end by this original, thought-provoking story!"

—Cinda Meister, Booksmart, Morgan Hill, CA
