Other Indie Favorites

Blood, Bones, and Butter: The Inadvertent Education of a Reluctant Chef, by Gabrielle Hamilton (Random House, $26) "This isn't your typical chef memoir. Gabrielle Hamilton has come to the stove by sheer force and tenacity, and it comes through on every page. From a rural childhood with her large family hosting a lamb roast for 100 guests to owning one of the most respected restaurants in New York City, Hamilton's journey hasn't always been easy." —Sherri Gallentine, Vroman's Bookstore, Pasadena, CA

Cleaning Nabokov's House: A Novel, by Leslie Daniels (Touchstone, $24) "Barb Barrett leaves her loveless marriage—she refers to her now former husband as the 'ex-person'—and in the process manages to lose everything, including her two children. Trying to put her life back together, she moves into a house once occupied by Vladimir Nabokov and discovers a manuscript that may or not be his. Thus begins a sweet tale of a quirky, charming and very funny woman finding her way, seeking happiness and fulfillment by some rather unconventional ways." —Ellen Burns, Books on The Common, Ridgefield, CT

Wingshooters: A Novel, by Nina Revoyr (Akashic Books, $15.95) "An abandoned young girl narrates this tale set in 1974 in a small Wisconsin town as it plummets and tumbles into heartbreak. 'You don't belong here,' the townspeople tell the mixed-race schoolgirl and anyone else who is not like them. Revoyr's voice vibrates with the spiritual and physical isolation—without adornment or illusion—that is reminiscent of the writings of Carson McCullers. The pacing is perfect, and Wingshooters captures fully the tragedy of personal rejection resulting from racial tension, as it explores both connection and loss and the enduring bonds of family." —James Harris, Prairie Lights Books, Iowa City, IA

Another Indie Favorite for Teen Readers

No Passengers Beyond This Point, by Gennifer Choldenko (Dial Books for Young Readers, $16.99) "Choldenko's imagination flies high with this wacky and wonderful novel that pays homage to The Wizard of Oz. After losing their home, Finn and his sisters are sent by their mother to stay with Uncle Red in Colorado, but their plane lands in an altogether different world. Even if you think you can guess what's going on here, the ending will still astonish you!"
