Other Indie Favorites

The Beauty of Humanity Movement: A Novel, by Camilla Gibb (Penguin Press, $25.95) "A Vietnamese-American woman returns to the land of her birth to discover what she can about her dissident father who was last seen around the time of the fall of Saigon. Befriending an itinerant maker of pho—a traditional noodle soup—who may have known him, she slowly learns the fate of the dissidents while rediscovering the culture she was removed from as a child. This is a lovely and touching story. —Sheryl Cotleur, Book Passage, Corte Madera, CA

Winged Obsession: The Pursuit of the World's Most Notorious Butterfly Smuggler, by Jessica Speart (William Morrow, $25.99) "I had certainly heard about wildlife smuggling, but this completely bizarre true-life tale brings the strange black market for insects vividly to life. The cat-and-mouse chase between an intrepid wildlife agent and the notorious and highly unusual Japanese smuggler will shock and amaze you. Movie producers, take note!" —Julie Arriens, R.J. Julia Booksellers, Madison, CT
