Other Indie Favorites

The Borrower: A Novel, by Rebecca Makkai (Viking Adult, $25.95) "A 26-year-old children's librarian, Lucy Hull, allows herself to be 'kidnapped' by one of her precocious 10-year-old patrons, a boy intent on running away from home. The pair end up on a hilarious road trip that ping-pongs them across the Midwest and out to the East Coast. Makkai's writing is sharp and funny, and book lovers will enjoy the many references to well-known titles. What a wonderful, assured, and original debut!" —Shuchi Saraswat, Titcomb's Bookshop, East Sandwich, MA

The Little Women Letters, by Gabrielle Donnelly (Touchstone, $25) "Donnelly has written a vibrant, humorous, and heart-warming novel about three sisters who are the imagined descendants of those famous March sisters known to the rest of us as Louisa May Alcott's Little Women. There's Emma, who's about to be married; Lulu, who's undecided about a career; and Sophie, who is utterly theatrical, both on and off stage. You will fall in love with them—along with their friends and relatives—and wish that they lived next door!" —Ellen Klein, Hooray for Books!, Alexandria, VA

Another Indie Favorite

Father of the Rain: A Novel, by Lily King (Grove Press, $14.95) "Told loosely over four decades, Father of the Rain is the story of Daley and her complicated and sometimes painful relationship with her alcoholic father. We are taken up with each step of her path as she moves from recognition of the problem, to anger and defiance, to wanting to be the savior and, finally to acceptance. All are masterfully woven in the beautiful prose of author Lily King." —Kathleen Costello, Maria's Bookshop, Durango, CO

Another Indie Favorite for Ages 9 to 12

Charlie Joe Jackson's Guide to Not Reading, by Tommy Greenwald (Roaring Brook, $14.99) "Middle school student Charlie Joe Jackson hates reading, so he devises a clever scheme involving an ice cream-loving friend who helps him with his reading assignments. After the terms of their agreement suddenly change, Charlie Joe hatches an elaborate but risky plan to avoid the reading portion of a major project. Readers will find Charlie Joe's guide to be an irresistible blend of wit and creativity that will hold their interest to the very last page." —Tish Gayle, The Blue Marble, Fort Thomas, KY
