The Return of Captain John Emmett: A Mystery, by Elizabeth Speller (Houghton Mifflin Harcourt, $26) "It is in particular stories of war that we are forced to see the cost of one life lost and how that loss effects so many others. After his military service has ended, John Emmett is found dead, an apparent suicide. His grieving sister Mary calls on Laurence Bartram, an old schoolmate, to help her understand what has happened. As he delves into the circumstances, Bartram realizes that others involved with Emmett in a disturbing wartime event have also died violently. This is a compelling story with a sympathetic protagonist who finds that there are seldom easy answers, few happy endings, and no good wars."

—Libby Cowles, Maria's Bookshop, Durango, CO

This Burns My Heart: A Novel, by Samuel Park (Simon & Schuster, $25) "In South Korea in 1960, Soo-Ja Choi is a beautiful young woman from a well-to-do family. As the country is struggling to recover from a divisive war and tries to enter the modern world, Soo-Ja is exploring her options as a young adult. When her father does not allow her to accept a position studying to be a diplomat, he destroys her dreams. Over the next 15 years, she struggles with her life decisions, her new family, and a love she gave up before she understood the permanence of choice. A compulsive read, the novel is based on the life of Park's mother."

Brilliant: The Evolution of Artificial Light, by Jane Brox (Mariner, $15.95) "These days we take the artificial illumination of our world so much for granted that it is surprising to learn that much of our country was not electrified until well into the last century. Brox looks at the entire history of illumination from the Ice Age forward, explaining not only the development of different lighting technologies through history, but helping us understand what each meant to the people whose lives they so profoundly changed." —Dale Szczablowski, Porter Square Books, Cambridge, MA

Another Indie Favorite for Ages 4 to 8

In the Meadow, by Yukiko Kato, Komako Sakai (illus.) (Enchanted Lion Books, $14.95) "This darling story is about a little girl chasing a butterfly through a meadow. Along the way she experiences the sights, sounds, and feel of the meadow. Her sense of wonder is brought to life by artwork reminiscent of painted fabric.

This is a wonderful addition to any child's bookshelf! —Fran Wilson, Colorado State University Bookstore, Fort Collins, CO
