Other Indie Favorites

Graveminder, by Melissa Marr (William Morrow, $22.99) "Rebekka is no stranger to funerals and the dead. After all, her grandmother went to every funeral in her hometown, stood at every grave, and told the dead to stay where she put them. Rebekka has spent much of her life running—from commitment, from her hometown, from the memories of her sister's suicide, and especially from her attraction to the Undertaker, Byron. But when she returns to bury her grandmother she finds out more about the town's secrets than she ever wanted to know. Filled with ancient contracts, the walking dead, and fated love, this eerie tale draws you in and leaves you yearning for more." —Angela Mann, Kepler's Books & Magazine, Menlo Park, CA

The Map of Time: A Novel, by Felix J. Palma (Atria, $26) "When H.G. Wells releases his new novel The Time Machine, he has no idea about the series of events he will set in motion. Join Wells on this romp through time as he tries to set Victorian London, literature, and his life back in order. Characters and events both real and imagined weave together in the three story lines that form this engaging and creative tale with all the twists, turns, and paradoxes that every good time travel book should have. Light the oil lamp, find a comfy chair, and enjoy!" —Shawn Bridges, Literary Lion, Stephenville, TX

Another Indie Favorite

Fur, Fortune, and Empire: The Epic History of the Fur Trade in America, by Eric Jay Dolin (Norton, $18.95) "Dolin guides readers through more than 200 years of man's quest for incredibly valuable animal pelts. Much of the tale is surprisingly nautical, as Old World powers vie for control of the abundant resources of the New World. Dolin's book seamlessly connects the economic, cultural, and geographical threads of the fur trade. His overview of this key era is beautifully written. Shipboard scoundrels, mountain men, Indian captives, ruthless capitalists, even victims of grizzly bears—this superb history has it all!" —Christopher Rose, Andover Bookstore, Andover, MA

Another Indie Favorite for Ages 9 to 12

Sparrow Road, by Sheila O'Connor (Putnam Juvenile, $16.99) "Twelve-year-old Raine's mom takes a summer job as cook at a small artists colony, and they leave the safety and security of Grandpa's loving home. The first part of the book has an aura of foreboding as they try to settle in to this new and seemingly creepy place, but as they get to know the residents, that creepiness disappears. Raine begins to put hopes and dreams on paper, and learns that with art it's not just about being 'good.' As Diego tells her, 'Do not think about being good. Good will goot you up from the beginning. Art just has to be. Dream your dreams. Trust the words that come.'" —Sue Carita, The Toadstool Bookshop, Milford, NH
