Other Indie Favorites

Triangles, by Ellen Hopkins (Atria, $26) "Fans of Ellen Hopkins know that her young adult books tackle tough issues without sugarcoating them. Her first adult novel is no different. Triangles is a hard look at three women and the paths they chose or blindly followed, and how those choices may change as they approach middle age. Written in Hopkins' signature poetic voice, this steamy entrance into the adult fiction genre will create a new generation of fans." —Cathy Allard, BayShore Books LLC, Oconto, WI

The Train of Small Mercies, by David Rowell (Putnam Adult, $25.95) "Old and young, black and white, nuns and bikers, girls in bikinis and men in military uniforms, all gathered to pay homage to Robert Kennedy as his funeral train passed by. This novel depicts a day in the lives of six characters who are looking for hope in an America overcome by grief. All ask the same question: Who now will stand up for those who need championing? A stunning debut!" —Karen Briggs, Great Northern Books and Hobbies, Oscoda, MI
