Other Indie Favorites

The World We Found: A Novel, by Thrity Umrigar (Harper, $25.99) "Umrigar's latest recalls the halcyon days at university in 1970s Bombay, which were characterized by intense friendships, fierce ambitions, and a determination to change the world, as remembered by four women whose lives have ended up radically different from their collegiate dreams: one, dying in America, whose last wish is to see her three friends, two living in upper middle class Mumbai, and the fourth who has been long-estranged from their circle. Painful secrets, both past and present, threaten to prevent the reunion. This marvelous novel is both fascinating and disturbing by turns." —Emily Crowe, Odyssey Bookshop, South Hadley, MA

Running the Rift: A Novel, by Naomi Benaron (Algonquin, $24.95) "Named for the Rwandan god of thunder, Jean Patrick Nkuba is destined for Olympic glory. Pushing his body up the misty hills of his village, he dreams not only of fame, but also of bringing peace to his country and equality to his Tutsi compatriots. When the floodwaters of hatred and war with the Hutu burst out over his homeland, Jean Patrick must run a different kind of race in order to survive. Both beautiful and heart-rending, horrific and hopeful, this novel carries a message that deserves to be widely read." —Amanda Hurley, Inkwood Books, Tampa, FL
