The Healing, by Jonathan Odell (Nan A. Talese/ Doubleday, $26) "During the years before the Civil War, Master Ben purchases Polly Shine, a slave woman known to possess healing powers, to help 'doctor' his slaves suffering from a mysterious plague. Polly also needs to pass on her healing knowledge to the next generation and focuses on Granada, a young slave girl. Granada is not so willing to accept her gift and is not interested in learning anything from Polly. Despite Granada's impatience and resistance, Polly teaches her that the gift of healing is much more than just learning to heal." —Julia Barth, Blue Willow Bookshop, Huston, TX

The Starboard Sea, by Amber Dermont (St. Martin's Press, $24.99) "In a world of privilege, Jaguars, Reniors, and competitive sailing, Jason Prosper has already lost what money can't buy: a best friend and lover. At Bellingham Academy, a last-shot boarding school for those on their third strike, Jason must learn to rebuild his life and navigate the stormy seas of friendship and love. Dermont recreates both the pain and promise of youth with beautiful clarity. She peoples her work with young adults doing their best to assume the very adult roles their world demands, complete with their flaws, fears, and insecurities masked by false bravado. An outstanding debut." —Christopher Green, The Bookworm of Edwards, Edwards, CO

Another Indie Favorite

The Illumination, by Kevin Brockmeier (Vintage, $15) "Brockmeier's latest novel weaves together disparate voices in a stunning meditation on pain and beauty. Like the best speculative fiction, it wields the paranormal to show us a very present truth. The Illumination is a reminder that, no matter how dramatically the world changes around us, people are and always will be people—and that there is a brightness in that, regardless of our failings." —Jenn Northington, WORD, Brooklyn, NY

Another Indie Favorite for Ages 4 to 8

Penny and Her Song, by Kevin Henkes (Greenwillow Books, $12.99) "Young Penny has a song of her own and wants to sing it for all to hear, but the babies are sleeping. What is she to do? Why sing, of course!

One is nice, two is nice,
Three is even better.
Four is nice, five is nice,
Six in rain is wetter.

Yet another reason to love Henkes!"
—Lorna Ruby, Wellesley Books, Wellesley, MA
