Other Indie Favorites

The Dog Who Danced: A Novel, by Susan Wilson (St. Martin's Press, $24.99) "If you liked Garth Stein's The Art of Racing in the Rain this should be next on your reading list. This story of love, loss, and redemption moves between venues and characters with the grace and fluidity of a dancer. The voices of Justine, who lost Mack; Ed, who found him; and Mack, himself, move this intricate but smoothly written novel quickly from Seattle to New Bedford. I couldn't wait to get to the next chapter and find out how these flawed, but likeable humans were affected by losing or finding Mack, and where Mack would eventually wind up. Wonderful!" —Trish Cutsail, A Likely Story, Sykesville, MD

Murder at the Lanterne Rouge, by Cara Black (Soho Crime, $25) "This is a whirlwind mystery featuring Aimee Leduc of the Leduc Detective Agency. The agency specialized in computer security, but Aimee always stumbles onto murders. In this case she must find the murderer because her partner Rene's girlfriend is the main suspect. Black expertly weaves the social issues of Chinese sweatshops and illegal immigrants with current science and computer technology, 14th century Templars and guilds, and the local police and French secret service. The murder is only one of the mysteries in this investigation that will delightfully transport you to Paris." —Patricia Moody, Hickory Stick Bookshop, Washington Depot, CT

Another Indie Favorite

The Evolution of Bruno Littlemore: A Novel, by Benjamin Hale (Twelve, $14.99) "The Evolution of Bruno Littlemore is a serious novel that manages to transform an interspecies love story into a journey into language, humanity, life, and death. It cleverly challenges the reader to explore ancient philosophical themes while sharing a love story between a woman and a chimpanzee, which includes some very funny moments. The story leaves you thinking deeply about what it means to be human. Open the book—and your mind—and let Benjamin Hale take you away." —Ed Conklin, Chaucer's Books, Santa Barbara, CA

Another Indie Favorite for Teen Readers

Fever (The Chemical Garden Trilogy), by Lauren DeStefano (Simon & Schuster Books for Young Readers, $17.99) "Picking up where Book 1, Winter, left off, Fever is a non-stop thrill ride. Rhine, devastated by the life she has been forced into, makes a life-altering decision affecting not just her, but also her sister, wives and Gabriel as well. Rhine's journey to freedom, and her struggle with who ultimately decides one's fate, makes readers question their own mortality. DeStefano has written one of the strongest female characters in young adult fiction today." —Alexis Duell, Market Block Books, Troy, NY
