Angelmaker: A Novel, by Nick Harkaway (Knopf, $26.95) "Joe Spork actively resists becoming a gangster like his dad. He knows he's missing something in his life as a law-abiding clockmaker, but can't quite put his finger on it. Reluctantly, he agrees to do a job for a friend from the shadier spots of his past and unknowingly turns on a machine that just might end the world as we know it. What follows is an escalating escapade into a world of mad scientists, a religious cult, secret agents, a death czar, covert government bureaucrats, swarms of golden bees, and gangsters galore. Angelmaker is an imaginative romp." —Hannah Johnson-Breimeier, Next Chapter Bookshop, Mequon, WI

The Book of Madness and Cures: A Novel, by Regina O'Melveny (Little, Brown, $25.99) "Gabriella lived in Venice, where women in the 16th century had roles strictly limited by the church and custom. Gabriella was her father's protégé, however, and he taught her to follow in his footsteps as a physician, a role usually not allowed women. Then her father disappeared. After awaiting his return and forbidden to practice in his absence, Gabriella follows in her father's footsteps once again, this time on an epic adventure across Europe and into Africa to bring him home. An unforgettable debut!" —Deon Stonehouse, Sunriver Books, Sunriver, OR

Grace: A Novel, by T. Greenwood (Kensington, $15) "I dare you to read the first chapter of this book and then try to set it aside. It's impossible not to devour the mystery of why Kurt aims his rifle at the back of his only son's head. As their story unfolds you will understand and sympathize with each character. Grace is a thriller, a heartbreaking account of bullying, and a beautiful story about an imperfect family and the love that must save them all." —Cathy Allard, Bay Shore Books, Oconto, WI

Dreamsleeves, by Coleen Murtagh Paratore (Scholastic Press, $16.99)

"Aslinn has a lot of responsibility and that includes taking care of her younger siblings instead of enjoying the summer before eighth grade and spending time with friends. She also has a dad whose drinking problem is getting worse. The best thing about Aslinn, though, is that she knows how to dream and she knows what she wants. She decides to put her dreams on her sleeve for all to see and for all to help her achieve. A touching story full of inspiration and hope." —Lisa Fabiano, Wellesley Books, Wellesley, MA
