Other Indie Favorites

Truth Like the Sun, by Jim Lynch (Knopf, $25.95)
"This book is one of a kind, and a great story. At a time when Seattle is celebrating the anniversary of the 1962 World's Fair, Lynch's novel is a bracing reminder of the larger context: an uncertain city hoping to make a mark mid-century, and then figuring out where it is in a more globalized world 40 years later. It is smart—and unique—to link these with one wonderfully rendered character, who is still trying to have a hand in how his city will go." —Rick Simonson, The Elliott Bay Book Company, Seattle, WA

Cures for Hunger: A Memoir, by Deni Y. Béchard (Milkweed Editions, $24)
"Béchard tells the story of his extraordinary upbringing in British Columbia, where he was strongly influenced by a father who enjoyed cheating death by doing everything from racing trains at railroad crossings to fighting anyone who crossed him. The even wilder deeds of his father's past could not be kept secret, and as they were slowly revealed, this loving and bizarre dad shaped the life of his son. Béchard has done a masterful job of taking all that life has dealt him and accepting and analyzing it in a fascinating piece of literature!" —Peter Schertz, Maria's Bookshop, Durango, CO
