Other Indie Favorites

Hand for a Hand, by T. Frank Muir (Soho Crime, $25)
“A dismembered hand is found on a golf course green with a note addressed to Scottish DCI Andy Gilchrist consisting of just one word: Murder. The subsequent investigation gets too close to home for Andy when family members become involved. Set in historic St. Andrews with dour characters and dreary weather to set the mood, this first in a new series is a real nail-biter until the last page.” —Rita Moran, Apple Valley Books, Winthrop, ME

The Valley of Unknowing, by Philip Sington (Norton, $25.95, $24)
“This well-crafted novel set in the East German state in the 1980s is an intricate story of subterfuge and betrayal that shares many features of the best thrillers. Sington offers not only a spot-on description of life in the former DDR, but also gives us real characters in a tale that provides engaging twists up to the very satisfying ending.” —Garry Jarman, Island Books, Etc., Mercer Island, WA
