Other Indie Favorites

River of Dust: A Novel, by Virginia Pye (Unbridled Books, $25) "Drawing on the journals of her grandfather, Pye has created a compelling and original tale. Her debut novel tells the story of Reverend Wesley Watson and his wife, Grace, as they confront the bleak landscape of northwestern China shortly after the Boxer Rebellion. Intending to bring the word of God to the Chinese, they are immediately sidetracked by the kidnapping of their young son. What follows is the heart-wrenching tale of the search for their son and its consequences. A must-read for fans of quality historical fiction." —Nancy Simpson-Brice, The Book Vault, Oskaloosa, IA

Snapper, by Brian Kimberling (Pantheon, $24.95) "Snapper is a beautiful collection of related short stories from first-time author Kimberling. The stories observe Nathan Lochmueller, bird researcher and romantic underachiever, and his fellow residents of southern Indiana. By turns melancholy and suspenseful, optimistic and rueful, Snapper is warm, endearing, and wise. You don't have to be a bird lover to spot the charm in this book." —David Enyeart, Common Good Books, St. Paul, MN
