Other Indie Favorites

The Carrion Birds: A Novel, by Urban Waite (William Morrow, $25.99) "Can you really go home again? Waite tackles this subject with great skill in The Carrion Birds. Ray, a recently unemployed widower, becomes a hired killer for a drug cartel. When Ray attempts to leave the cartel, his father is brutally murdered and Ray vows revenge. His cousin Tom, a former police officer, tracks him down. But can cousins who are as close as brothers really do the right thing? Masterful and unsettling."—Pamela Pride, Kerri's Korner Bookstore, Fairmont, WV

Red Moon: A Novel, by Benjamin Percy (Grand Central, $25.99) "A phenomenal writer at a cellular level, Percy continues to develop into a beastly literary force. In his latest, he tears up the epic horror novel, transforming it into a war novel, a political novel, a novel of judgment and revolution. When werewolves who have lived side by side with humans through history feel oppressed to the point of breaking, a faction rises up against the U.S. government and uses terrorist tactics that force everyone—both lycan and human—to decide on which side they stand and which lines they are willing to cross. Red Moon is terrifyingly good, with sharp claws, sexy rumbles, and plenty of blood and guts." —Stacie M. Williams, Boswell Book Company, Milwaukee, WI
