The Girl With All the Gifts, by M.R. Carey (Orbit, $25) "Meet Melanie, a child prodigy around whom circles a group of adults that protect, educate, covet, study, fear, and love her. She is the answer to the countless questions that have arisen since much of the planet and population have been destroyed by a fungal virus. Her intelligence, resilience, and chemical makeup could possibly shed a light on the future of the human race. In a near-future in which critical decisions must be made at a moment's notice, Melanie and her four adult companions will find that their morality is constantly tested and changing. Humans become monsters, but monsters become human, too." —Katie Capaldi, Between the Covers, Harbor Springs, MI

The Transcriptionist: A Novel, by Amy Rowland (Algonquin Books, $24.95) "Lena works as a transcriptionist for The Record, a major newspaper based in New York City. Her job is to transcribe reporters' stories and interviews in preparation for publication. Her life is a quiet one, full of other people's voices. The reader is drawn into Lena's isolated life, where she's haunted by the brutal stories she records every day as well as memories of her childhood. This is a thoughtful, ultimately hopeful novel about the degree of tenderness we bring to the millions of fine details in other people's lives that we encounter every day." —Julie Wernersbach, BookPeople, Austin, TX
