Other Indie Favorites

The Girls from Corona del Mar: A Novel, by Ruffi Thorpe (Knopf, $24.95) "I have not read such a stinging portrayal of female friendship since Margaret Atwood's Cat's Eye. The relationship between Mia and Lorrie Ann is a wonderful example of how things are never as they appear on the surface and of the secrets and truths we hide from both others and ourselves. Mia and Lorrie Ann's journey will leave you heartbroken in the best way." —Patricia Worth, River Reader, Lexington, MO

Unruly Places: Lost Spaces, Secret Cities, and Other Inscrutable Geographies, by Alastair Bonnett (Houghton Mifflin Harcourt, $25) "Did you know there were such things as floating trash islands? A professor of social geography, Bonnett explores the meaning of place in our lives while taking readers to some spaces that are lost, hidden, or ephemeral. He also looks at our need to have 'a world that is not totally known and that has the capacity to surprise us.' The book's format makes it very easy to digest in either small bits or from cover to cover. Unruly Places provides a fun, vicarious way to explore as well as a means for reflection." —Valerie Welbourn, The Fountainhead Bookstore, Hendersonville, NC
