Other Indie Favorites

The Home Place: A Novel, by Carrie La Seur (William Morrow, $25.99) "Alma Terrebonne, a rising star in a Seattle law firm, has left behind her complicated family and past tragedies in Billings, Montana, until one morning when a call for help pulls her back. Returning to identify her sister, dead apparently from exposure, and to care for her 11-year-old niece, Alma is overcome by guilt, fragile family relations, powerful memories from the past, and the hold the family homestead has over her. Both a tense, page-turning police procedural and a delightful romance with carefully drawn characters, The Home Place will resonate with the reader long after the book is finished." —Darwin Ellis, Books on the Common, Ridgefield, CT

Small Blessings: A Novel, by Martha Woodroof (St. Martin's Press, $25.99) "A cast of quirky characters—a well-meaning but bumbling college professor; his agoraphobic wife, his sitcom-worthy mother-in-law, and a charming itinerant bookseller—is thrown into a whirl when a small 'orphan' boy appears in their midst. The power of love and caring lifts everyone above their flaws in a heartwarming story about finding love and family in unconventional ways." —Jenny Stroyeck, The Homer Bookstore, Homer, AK
