Other Indie Favorites

First Impressions: A Novel of Old Books, Unexpected Love, and Jane Austen, by Charlie Lovett (Viking, $27.95) "This is a frothy and fun mystery / romance that asks 'What if Jane Austen plagiarized her greatest work, Pride and Prejudice?' By alternating chapters about Austen and her fictional friendship with an elderly minister and writer with those involving a modern-day bookseller and Austen fan who is searching for love and rare books, Lovett builds suspense while tossing in all kinds of fun Austen factoids. The tale is simple and sweet and the heroine is a modern-day Eliza, torn between two men and her first impressions of each. Delightful, especially for Austen fans—and really, who isn't?" —Bill Carl, The Booksellers on Fountain Square, Cincinnati, OH

The Birds of Pandemonium: Life Among the Exotic and the Endangered, by Michele Raffin (Algonquin Books, $24.95) "Raffin has created a sanctuary for rare and endangered birds that completely surrounds her California home with professionally maintained aviaries to protect, preserve, and propagate more than 300 species. Her obsession with the birds' survival is an inspiration, and her descriptions of the various birds' behaviors and emotional lives are a delight. This extraordinary story of commitment, love, and devotion is an exemplary tale of perseverance, diligence, and heartfelt sacrifice on behalf of feathered creatures in desperate need of help." —John Evans, DIESEL: A Bookstore, Oakland, CA
