Another Indie Favorite for Ages 9 to 12
Masterminds, by Gordon Korman (Balzer + Bray, $16.99) "Korman's latest is thrilling! Only 30 kids live in the idyllic town of Serenity. It is a perfect place where people are happy and kind, there is no crime, and everyone has what they need. But all is not as it seems. Evil lies beneath the perfection. Told through the alternating voices of five of Serenity's kids, this surprising tale unfolds with relentless suspense, and readers are as shocked as the narrators when the truth about Serenity becomes clear. I could not stop reading!" —Christopher Rose, Andover Bookstore, Andover, MA

Another Indie Favorite for Teen Readers
The Doubt Factory, by Paolo Bacigalupi (Little, Brown Books for Young Readers, $18) "The Doubt Factory is a complex, intelligent thriller. With themes involving the pharmaceutical industry, bad science, and the companies that orchestrate cover-ups, this book is intriguing, relevant, and boasts a broad variety of bright, if not totally law abiding, teens. Bacigalupi knows how to present believable characters of both genders, and the variety of racial backgrounds is refreshingly accurate. A great, important read!" —Flannery Fitch, Bookshop Santa Cruz, Santa Cruz, CA
