Another Indie Favorite for Ages 9 to 12
The Imaginary, by A.F. Harrold, Emily Gravett (Illus.) (Bloomsbury Children's Books, $16.99) "Amanda and her imaginary friend, Rudder, spend their days exploring the Amazon in hot-air balloons, bouncing on the surface of alien planets in space suits, and chasing strange, cat-like creatures. Their adventures are limited only by the immense imagination of Amanda, but when the sinister Mr. Bunting, an old man who eats imaginary friends, shows up and is intent on consuming Rudder, the two friends race against him and the constraints of adult imagination." —Linda Sherman-Nurick, Cellar Door Books, Riverside, CA

Another Indie Favorite for Teen Readers
My Heart and Other Black Holes, by Jasmine Warga (Balzer + Bray, $17.99) "Aysel is sure she wants to die; she just doesn't know if she can do it alone. When she stumbles upon FrozenRobot's listing for a suicide partner online, she's sure that she's found the person she needs. But Aysel never expects that there might be other things holding her back. Sometimes sorrowful, sometimes funny, and always honest, this novel tackles the difficult topic of suicide with tact, while acknowledging that life can be messy, sad, and happy all at once." —Sara Grochowski, Brilliant Books, Traverse City, MI
