Other Indie Favorites

The Precious One: A Novel, by Marisa de los Santos (William Morrow, $25.99) "In The Precious One, de los Santos offers a tale of family secrets, love, rejection, and forgiveness. The point of view shifts between two half-sisters who have met only once in 16 years: Taisy Cleary, now 35, and 16-year-old Willow. Why would their father bring his daughters together now, after he has kept them apart for all these years? The story is both warmly funny and heartbreaking as the two sisters share their perceptions and insights into the man who abandoned his first family. This is a thoroughly enjoyable read!" —Fran Duke, Where the Sidewalk Ends, Chatham, MA

Hammer Head: The Making of a Carpenter, by Nina MacLaughlin (W.W. Norton, $25.95) "After 10 years working as a journalist in front of a computer screen, Nina knew she needed a career change. An ad on Craigslist caught her eye: 'Carpenter's Assistant sought: Women strongly encouraged to apply.' So begins Nina's journey, as Mary, her mentor, transforms her from desk sitter to desk maker. Hammer Head not only shows readers how Nina became a carpenter, but also that she can still work wonders with her words." —Barbara Theroux, Fact & Fiction, Missoula, MT
