Another Indie Favorite for Teen Readers

Conviction, by Kelly Gilbert (Disney-Hyperion, $17.99) "Wow! The pressure of the situation that 17-year-old Braden finds himself in when his father is arrested for murder and Braden is the crucial witness builds and builds throughout the novel as the author slowly reveals what really happened that night. My heart is still bleeding for Braden, days after finishing Conviction, which I highly recommend for both adults and teens." —Jill Hendrix, Fiction Addiction, Greenville, SC

Another Indie Favorite for Teen Readers

Anything Could Happen, by Will Walton (Push, $17.99) "The reason books like this need to be written is to remind us that everyone deserves to be loved unconditionally. The character of Tretch is your brother, your son, your favorite co-worker, your nephew. He is one of the most kind, true, genuine teenage boys you'll ever meet. It takes great courage to be honest, and Walton's main character realizes that being truly honest opens you up to being loved. When you read Anything Could Happen, you'll hold your breath, your heart will break, and you'll wish you could see Tretch's dance moves!" —Rachel Watkins, Avid Bookshop, Athens, GA
