Another Indie Favorite

The Girl Who Wrote in Silk: A Novel, by Kelli Estes (Sourcebooks Landmark, $14.99) "In 1886, in Seattle a young Chinese woman is forced out of the only home she has ever known. Mei Lien must overcome prejudices and terror while struggling to keep the traditional beliefs that are close to her heart. On contemporary Orcas Island, Inara deals with an overbearing father who will throw up every roadblock in order to get her to do what he wants. As Inara prepares to turn a family home into a hotel, she finds an embroidered silk sleeve hidden below a stair step and begins a search to find out more about the woman who made it. This story is compelling, heart-wrenching, and an absolutely beautiful read." —Debbie Buck, Vintage Books, Vancouver, WA
