Another Indie Favorite for Ages 9 to 12
Confessions of an Imaginary Friend: A Memoir by Jacques Papier, by Michelle Cuevas (Dial Books for Young Readers, $16.99) "Meet Jacques Papier, friend to Fleur, an identity which he cherishes. Jacques has spent his entire life with Fleur, playing, learning, and enjoying their time together, except for one thing: Jacques is a product of Fleur's imagination. It's when he realizes this that things get complicated. Delightful, funny, sweet, and enjoyable, this new middle-reader from Cuevas is sure to delight, even as she touches on one of the hard things about growing up." —Melissa Fox, Watermark Books and Café, Wichita, KS

Another Indie Favorite for Teen Readers
Fans of the Impossible Life, by Kate Scelsa (Balzer + Bray, $17.99) "Jeremy, Mira, and Sebby are three of the most interesting and authentic young adult voices I have ever read. Life as a teenager is rarely as simple as the world might have us believe, and these three characters and their stories are a wonderful illustration of just how hard it feels some days to simply get out of bed in the morning and march out into your day as if everything is fine. Scelsa reminds readers that it's OK to feel unsure or afraid, and that true friends will accept you as you are and walk with you while you find your way." —Laura Donohoe, Malaprop's Bookstore/Café, Asheville, NC
