Other Indie Favorites

Hide: A Novel, by Matthew Griffin (Bloomsbury, $26) "On the outer edge of a struggling small town in North Carolina lives a long-married—in name, if not in fact—couple, Frank and Wendell. For all the decades they have been together they have hidden from the world to protect themselves, but now Frank's health is failing. The poignancy of Wendell's struggle to keep Frank safe is heartbreaking. These are not characters we see often in fiction—poor and rural and gay and old—but Griffin draws them so honestly and well that we quickly know them and come to care deeply for them." —Michael Barnard, Rakestraw Books, Danville, CA

Green Island: A Novel, by Shawna Yang Ryan (Knopf, $26.95) "Like Vaddey Ratner's In the Shadow of the Banyan, Ryan's heartbreaking novel takes readers to an island with a history unknown to many: Taiwan. Rarely portrayed in a work of fiction, Taiwan is an island of complex political relations, families torn apart by political unrest, and a lush and beautiful physical landscape. In luscious prose, Green Island teaches readers about the humanity of mankind, the brutality of political power and unrest, and why some secrets are never told. I cannot wait to hand sell this!" —Annie Philbrick, Bank Square Books, Mystic, CT
