For Ages 9 to 12

Eleven and Holding, by Mary Penney

(HarperCollins, $16.99) "This summer Macy is going to turn 12 and too many things are not what they seem: Ginger, whose gray braids hang down from her motorcycle helmet, offers a reward to find a dog that may not be missing; the annoying boy with the skateboard and sideways smile might not be that bad; and the special assignment they say her father has been on since returning from Iraq may not really be why he isn't coming home for her birthday. Macy's summer of hard truths—baffling, funny, and tough as it is—is full of amazing discoveries and a loving, endearing cast of characters." —Ellen Lamb, The Toadstool Bookshop, Keene, NH

For Teen Readers

The Crown's Game, by Evelyn Skye (Balzer + Bray, $17.99)

"Russia, 1825. Two enchanters are raised from birth to assist the tsar, but only one can survive. With social unrest threatening the empire, the tsar is forced to begin the Crown's Game. This 'game,' meant as a way for each enchanter to demonstrate their skills and prove their worth to the empire, brings Vika and Nikolai together to compete for the favor of the tsar. As the two take turns creating awe-inspiring events, Vika and Nikolai begin to realize that the real magic is created when they are together. But when one is destined to die, how can their love survive?" —Marya Johnston, Out West Books, Grand Junction, CO
