This Is Not a Werewolf Story, by Sandra Evans (Atheneum Books for Young Readers, $16.99)

"Raul is a loner—the only child not picked up on the weekend. Or is he? The language leaps from the page with imagery as we delve into Raul's magical weekends, which teem with animal references, Native American themes, and serious childhood problems. There is something in this for everyone." —Valerie Koehler, Blue Willow Bookshop, Houston, TX

Indies Introduce

For Teen Readers: Revisit & Rediscover

The Five Flavors of Dumb, by Antony John (Speak, $8.99) Originally published in hardcover in 2010

"Dumb is a hot high school rock band as hopelessly rhythmically challenged as their members are diverse. Piper is a smart, sassy senior focused on academics and chess club and her plans to attend Gallaudet University in the fall. When financial circumstances threaten Piper's dreams, she does whatever she can to stay on track. Dumb needs direction and Piper needs money. In a moment of weakness she agrees to become the band's manager, despite being deaf. A deliciously funny quest to find fame, love, and, most importantly, one's voice." —Kris Vreeland, Once Upon a Time, Montrose, CA
