Other Indie Favorites

Leave Me: A Novel, by Gayle Forman (Algonquin Books, $26.95) "Filled with poignant, heartwarming insights into the incessant demands of marriage and motherhood, Leave Me brilliantly shows readers that sometimes you really do have to run away from it all in order to discover what really matters. In her adult debut, Forman provides a frank and moving story about losing and finding yourself by embracing the power of forgiveness, the inevitability of growth, and the stubbornness of love." —Anderson McKean, Page and Palette, Fairhope, AL

The Fortunes: A Novel, by Peter Ho Davies (Houghton Mifflin Harcourt, $27) "At a time of talk about building walls and isolationism, Davies offers a look at American history through the lives of a group of people who have helped to forge this nation—Chinese-Americans. Davies presents characters for whom the American dream is as elusive or as real as it would be to any others. Set in the California Gold Rush, 1930s Hollywood, and the present day, Davies' tale is artfully told with passion and conviction, and readers will empathize fully with each generation of 'outsiders.'" —Jessie Martin, Nicola's Books, Ann Arbor, MI
