For Ages 9 to 12

Ashes, by Laurie Halse Anderson (Atheneum/Caitlyn Dlouhy Books, $16.99) "The wait is over! Anderson's highly anticipated conclusion to The Seeds of America Trilogy is here, and it exceeds all expectations. Anderson's exhaustive research and brilliant writing make Ashes a must-read for people of all ages. Isabel, Cruzon, and Ruth are back, and their story of perseverance and hope during the Revolutionary War could not have come at a better time. Thank you, Laurie!" —Bill Reilly, the river's end bookstore, Oswego, NY

For Teen Readers

The Singing Bones, by Shaun Tan (Arthur A. Levine Books, $24.99) "This is, in essence, a museum catalog for an exhibition you dreamed of one night, and Tan plucked those images from your dreams and made them real. Not literal artistic interpretations of Grimm's fairy tales, but artistic representations of the feelings those tales evoke. Tan's sculptures are at once whimsical and unsettling, surreal and grounded. With an introduction by Neil Gaiman and a forward from Jack Zipes, this book belongs on the shelf of every lover of fairy tales, especially readers who appreciate the darker side of those tales." —Billie Bloebaum, Third Street Books, McMinnville, OR
