Other Indie Favorites

The Marsh King's Daughter: A Novel, by Karen Dionne (G.P. Putnam's Sons, $26) "After a childhood in the wilds of Northern Michigan, where her rugged, brutal father was the center of her world, Helena has made a new life with a family who doesn't know her past. Now she and her father are hunting each other and Helena must use all the skills he taught her to survive. Fascinating, dark, and disturbing, The Marsh King's Daughter is a psychological thriller most compelling in its rich descriptions of the survivalist training of a very tough little girl." —Patty Mullins, Oblong Books and Music, Millerton, NY

Do Not Become Alarmed: A Novel, by Maile Meloy (Riverhead Books, $27) "All parents have had those moments when something happens and you think, 'This is it. The moment my life changes.' This is the story of two families that face the unimaginable: they lose their children in a foreign country. The tale alternates between characters, with each fully realized and fully drawn. Maile Meloy explores what happens to each family: the relationship between the wives, who are cousins and have been close since childhood, and between the children who are missing. The writing is incredible, and the story is such that you can't put it down. A satisfying read that makes you wonder about how you would react in the same situation." —Kym Havens, An Unlikely Story, Plainville, MA
