Other Indie Favorites

We Shall Not All Sleep, Estep Nagy (Bloomsbury, $26) "I was completely immersed in this perfectly constructed novel of two families vacationing on an island in Maine during the Cold War summer of 1964. Nagy contrasts the warm, idyllic, beautifully rendered setting with the chill of manipulations and deceptions both personal and political. The family dynamics could best be summed up by the father, who explains to his young son how important it is to 'learn when to lie, to whom, and to do it well.'" —Sarah Goddin, Quail Ridge Books, Raleigh, NC

Drunks: An American History, by Christopher M. Finan (Beacon Press, $29.95) "The long and evolving history of alcoholism and corresponding sobriety movements in America is fascinating, for both its colorful characters and its complex interface with religion and the sciences. In Finan's astute, well-researched, and entertaining narrative, this story of sober drunks offers both understanding and insight into a critically important subject whose nature has long been occluded and subsumed in stigma." —Kenny Brechner, Devaney Doak & Garrett Booksellers, Farmington, ME
