Other Indie Favorites

The Ready-made Thief, by Augustus Rose

(Viking, $26) "Lee is a 17-year-old girl who has gotten into a bit of trouble. Not that she is innocent, or completely guilty either. She runs with the wrong crowd, steals something that is not hers, and now she is on the run with nobody to turn to. Rose takes readers into the underbelly of Philadelphia to solve the mystery Lee has fallen into. Rose melds together information and story methods with amazing skill, drawing on secret societies, hacking, art theft, conspiracies, drugs, and so much more. This plot moves; it does not slow down until it reaches the conclusion, which will have you gasping for breath. Such a brilliant journey."

—Jason Kennedy, Boswell Book Company, Milwaukee, WI

A Kind of Freedom, by Margaret Wilkerson Sexton

(Counterpoint, $26) "I loved the different generations in A Kind of Freedom, beginning with the parents of Evelyn and Ruby, who seem so proper and clean, to present-generation TC, a very likable, hopeful character, but one whose circumstances involve him in drugs and prison. I found the evolution of the family to present day sad but fascinating, and I couldn't help but root for every single character. In the end, you still feel hopeful despite it all." —Margot Farris, pages: a bookstore, Manhattan Beach, CA
