For Ages 9 to 12

The Girl Who Saved Christmas, by Matt Haig, Chris Mould (Illus.) (Knopf Books for Young Readers, $16.99) "I adored A Boy Called Christmas, and I was so excited to see Matt Haig continuing in that vein. The Girl Who Saved Christmas is a delight to read—is fast-paced and fun, just as the last one was, with the right mix of emotional scenes, action, and comedy. And, of course, the illustrations by Chris Mould make it even better! Mould has a very Burton-esque way of illustrating that adds another layer to what you are seeing. I highly recommend this to people looking for gifts for the upcoming Christmas season."

For Teen Readers

Not Now, Not Ever, by Lily Anderson (Wednesday Books, $18.99) "This charming reimagining of The Importance of Being Earnest is the perfect summer camp book. Elliot Gabaroché has deceived her family in order to attend a cutthroat academic camp and have a shot at winning a scholarship to the host college. But just as Oscar Wilde's characters Algernon and Jack learn that deception creates more problems than solutions, Elliot has to deal with both the joys and the challenges of living as her new alter ego, Ever. A funny, sweet look at family pressures, nerdy kids being nerdy, and teens taking risks to go for a dream."
