For Ages 9 to 12

Hurricane Child, by Kheryn Callender (Scholastic Press, $17.99) "Being a hurricane child myself, I instantly connected with Caroline and her bad luck. Caroline is used to being the outsider who can see ghosts, but she can't accept that her mom left her one day and never came back. When a new, charismatic girl who may see ghosts, too, starts at her school, Caroline desperately wants to befriend her. Soon the two are inseparable, and together they search for Caroline's mother. This wonderful, mystical tale takes the reader on a journey filled with grief and loss but also love, friendship, and hope." —Holly Alexander, Magic Tree Bookstore, Oak Park, IL

For Teen Readers

Orphan Monster Spy, by Matt Killeen (Viking Books for Young Readers, $18.99) "I opened this book at 9:00 a.m. and closed it at 4:15 p.m. after turning the last page. At times, I felt like my eyeballs just couldn't move as fast as I wanted to be reading. As much of a page-turner as this is, it also delivers a real sense of history and an empowered and empowering 15-year-old heroine who has suffered yet never gives in to fear or hopelessness. It's like Harry Potter meets James Bond in Nazi Germany, starring a Jewish orphan who just keeps kicking butt." —Nina Barrett, Bookends & Beginnings, Evanston, IL
