Another Indie Favorite

Miss You: A Novel, by Kate Eberlen (Harper Paperbacks, $16.99) "Tess and Gus first cross paths in Florence as 18-year-olds with their futures stretching ahead of them. Back in England, they live their lives oblivious to all the near-misses and chances they have to encounter one another again. The meandering way their lives circle each other is charming rather than frustrating, but the heart of this book lies in the choices Tess and Gus make as their lives unfold in ways neither anticipated. Exceptionally poignant and filled with relatable and deeply human characters, this is a thoughtful story about how you can never quite guess what life has in store for you—and maybe that's for the best." —Kelly O'Sullivan, R.J. Julia Booksellers, Madison, CT
