For Ages 9 to 12

The Adventures of a Girl Called Bicycle, by Christina Uss (Margaret Ferguson Books, $16.99)

"A funny, heartwarming, and infinitely imaginative story about a friendless 12-year-old girl determined to ride across the country to befriend her hero, Polish bicycling champion Zbigniew Sienkiewicz. Along the way she meets ghosts, pie-makers, and crazy inventors; gets run over in a pig stampede; and accidentally launches a missile. And that's when she's not being chased by the mysterious woman in black. A fun, can't-miss summer read for everyone!" —Chris Abouzeid, Belmont Books, Belmont, MA

For Teen Readers

Furyborn, by Claire Legrand (Sourcebooks Fire, $18.99)

"Furyborn is exactly the kind of ambitious, well-written YA high fantasy that I've been looking for. This novel is female-focused and driven, with girls who are strong, powerful, pissed off, damaged, unabashedly sexual, and in control. The writing is so beautiful, I found myself re-reading sentences simply for the pleasure of it. It's a story that is complex, compelling, and carefully crafted. Claire Legrand is a jewel. I can't wait for the next installment." —Cristina Russell, Books & Books, Coral Gables, FL
