Other Indie Favorites

The Third Hotel: A Novel, by Laura van den Berg (Farrar, Straus and Giroux, $26) "Laura van den Berg's The Third Hotel is sublime and unsettling, haunting and sophisticated. The Havana that serves as the backdrop for this story is as surreal, soaked in perspiration, and capitulated to ruin as the sense of loss that drives the novel. This is one not to be missed. A mesmerizing masterwork." —David Gonzalez, Skylight Books, Los Angeles, CA

The Family Tabor: A Novel, by Cherie Wolas (Flatiron Books, $27.99) "When you have the most skillfully prepared, decadent dessert placed in front of you, do you plunge in and devour it? Or do you slowly savor it? This is the happy predicament I find myself in when approaching the work of Cherie Wolas. Harry Tabor, a 70-year-old Jewish man living in Palm Springs, is about to receive the 'Man of the Decade' award for a lifetime of service to refugees. His beautiful, interesting, and seemingly perfect family is congregating to celebrate. In the span of less than two days, the story of their lives unravels and revelations occur. This brilliantly executed novel is filled with secrets, repressed memories, and unforgettable characters under a blazing California sun." —Damita Nocton, The Country Bookshop, Southern Pines, NC
