For Ages 9 to 12

The Dollar Kids, by Jennifer Richard Jacobson, Ryan Andrews (Illus.) (Candlewick Press, $17.99)

"I recognized myself in this book. Like Lowen, I've been an 11-year-old grappling with guilt and grief. I've moved from a city to a small town and found a home. I know it's cheesy, but this book made me laugh, cry, and hug my child. I completely fell in love with Millville and The Dollar Kids, and I know everyone who reads this book will, too." —Sarah Krammen, Dragonfly Books, Decorah, IA

For Teen Readers

Puddin', by Julie Murphy (Balzer + Bray, $17.99)

"Millie Michalchuk, the fat girl who was the runner-up in the Miss Teen Blue Bonnet Pageant in Dumplin', is a born rule-follower who is nevertheless chafing at the restrictions being put on her by society—and by her overprotective mother. Millie has plans for her life that don't fall within the narrow paths she's been taught to follow. Callie, whose life revolves around the school's dance team, seemingly has it all until a bad decision forces her out of her former life and into Millie's orbit. Murphy gets inside her characters' heads beautifully as she narrates the pains, pressures, and joys of high school." —Carol Schneck Varner, Schuler Books, Okemos, MI
