Other Indie Favorites

Bitter Orange: A Novel, by Claire Fuller (Tin House Books, $25.95) "What I look forward to most in Claire Fuller's writing is the deliberate unfolding of plot and character, the careful chemistry that crackles when characters observe one another and reader observes narrator. Bitter Orange is Fuller's most mysterious novel yet, a house haunted by the stories its characters tell of their pasts and the slow unraveling of the truth. Dark and twisty and full of secrets, Bitter Orange is a satisfying page-turner perfect for readers who like a spooky and psychological read." —Kelsey O'Rourke, Literati Bookstore, Ann Arbor, MI

November Road: A Novel, by Lou Berney (William Morrow, $26.99) "Lou Berney's engrossing novel November Road unfolds in the immediate aftermath of JFK's assassination, but the heady confusion and shock of that dark day play second fiddle to the stories of Frank Guidry and Charlotte Roy, two desperate individuals seeking to outrun the entanglements of their very different lives. Guidry, a once-trusted player for the Marcello mob, is a marked man fleeing for his life; Roy, a weary housewife, seeks better prospects for herself and her daughters, so she must escape from both her dead-end town and deadbeat husband. Told in sharp, cinematic prose, this novel explodes the boundaries of the typical crime novel and offers up something more literary, a finely tuned exploration of the will to change." —Mike Wysock, The Book Stall, Winnetka, IL

Another Indie Favorite

Samuel Johnson's Eternal Return, by Martin Riker (Coffee House Press, $16.95) "After his violent death, Samuel Johnson inhabits multiple souls as he strives to reunite with his now-orphaned young son. Encompassing dark humor, unfathomable tragedy, and tracing the history of television in America, Martin Riker's outstanding debut novel illustrates how the human spirit can persevere." —Caitlin Luce Baker, University Book Store, Seattle, WA

For Ages 9 to 12

The Darkdeep, by Ally Condie, Brendan Reichs (Bloomsbury Children's Books, $16.99) "This middle grade novel has everything: four good friends and a lurking bully; a mysterious, seemingly forgotten lake; and a houseboat that holds more than one secret. When Nico, Opal, Tyler, and Emma discover the Darkdeep they must make a decision: keep it to themselves? Or tell someone, their parents, the police, anyone? This is a very satisfying read about friendship and bravery with just the right amount of scary fantastic creatures. I can't wait to see what happens next!" —Anne Holman, The King's English, Salt Lake City, UT

For Teen Readers

Damsel, by Elana K. Arnold (Balzer + Bray, $17.99) "Timely, dark, and compelling, Damsel is an intense feminist read, an anti-fairy tale, and definitely a crossover adult title. Arnold's writing is impeccable, her voice powerful, her style sly and captivating. She turns the damsel-in-distress trope inside out here with a tale that deals creatively and unflinchingly with violence and sexual assault and more, reminiscent of such other powerful titles as Margo Lanagan's Tender Morsels. One of my favorite titles of the season." —Joy Preble, Brazos Bookstore, Houston, TX

For Ages 4 to 8

Mission Defrostable, by Josh Funk, Brendan Kearney (Illus.) (Sterling Children's Books, $16.95) "Josh Funk is back with our favorite duo, Lady Pancake and Sir French Toast, who get caught up in a madcap mystery involving sinister produce and an arctic freeze in their fridge. Braving the elements and calling on their nemesis Baron von Waffle, they trek into the unknown to confront the culprit(s). Told in the same catchy rhymes that we've come to love from Funk, pick up this book to see if enemy relationships are thawed and if our heroes return to their refrigerator home."
