For Ages 9 to 12

Scouts, by Shannon Greenland (Jimmy Patterson, $16.99)

"This adventure and friendship story will pull you along happily on the journey of Annie and her posse of friends called the Scouts. Are friendships forever or can they be finite due to outgrowing shared experiences? Debut author Greenland carefully navigates this question as seventh grade looms large on the horizon. Annie and her buddies get lost in caves, almost drown, and get down and dirty in the mud and worms while a strange meteor shower-sprinkling of silver dust leads to a wham-bang climax." —Maureen Palacios, Once Upon a Time, Montrose, CA

For Teen Readers

The Merciful Crow, by Margaret Owen (Henry Holt and Co. Books for Young Readers, $18.99)

"In a world dominated by a strict caste system, the Crows struggle to get by, take care of their own, and survive the rampant prejudices of society. Within the first few pages, I was completely caught up in this fully realized world and compelling story where we follow Fie, a daring Crow full of fire and fury, as she tries to carve out a place for herself and her people against all odds. I loved the strong characters, endowed with real fears, desires, and relationships, and the heart-wrenching realities of their world, which often echoed the injustices and inequalities of ours." —Shoshana Smith, Flashlight Books, Walnut Creek, CA
