For Ages 9 to 12

Black Brother, Black Brother, by Jewell Parker Rhodes (Little, Brown Books for Young Readers, $16.99) "In Black Brother, Black Brother, Rhodes looks at colorism, prejudice in schooling systems against people of color, and whitewashing in history all in a brilliant sports narrative. After being falsely accused of disrupting class at his private school and then arrested for being angry that no one would listen to him, Donte is encouraged to get back at his bully in their own game: fencing. What follows is a book filled with brilliance, familial love, and friendship. I love this book and look forward to recommending it to everyone!" —Nathaniel Hattrick, Liberty Bay Books, Poulsbo, WA

For Teen Readers

Only Mostly Devastated, by Sophie Gonzales (Wednesday Books, $17.99) "A super-sweet queer reimagining of Grease! Ollie and Will had a perfect just-for-the-summer fling at the lake. When Ollie's family unexpectedly decides to stay in North Carolina to help take care of his ill aunt, Ollie thinks maybe, just maybe, their summer fling can last. Now, Ollie is facing a senior year in a new city with a secret sort-of-boyfriend, a beloved aunt whose health is deteriorating, and an unsure future. A smart, charming rom-com." —Lillian Tschudi-Campbell, Red Balloon Bookshop, St. Paul, MN
