Other Indie Favorites

Catherine House: A Novel, by Elisabeth Thomas
(Custom House, $27.99) “Getting into Catherine House is the key to success. Spend three years here completely removed from the outside world, separate yourself from your life before Catherine House, and when the three years are over, you’ll be unstoppable. That’s the premise for this evocative and gripping gothic novel. Elisabeth Thomas’ ability to create at once an elusive yet highly practical world makes her a stunning new literary voice. Inspired by secret societies, scientific experimentation, and the mysteriousness of finding ourselves, Catherine House is sure to haunt readers.” —Stephanie Skees, The Novel Neighbor, Webster Groves, MO

Red Dress in Black and White: A Novel, by Elliot Ackerman
(Knopf, $26.95) “Over the latter half of the past decade, Elliot Ackerman has established himself as one of the great voices in modern literature. His novels and essays have provided uncommon depth of understanding of a world in constant violent conflict, all written with a superb command of language. His newest novel once again delves into a world of corruption and deception, but this is done at a much more personal level as the crisis of a marriage in Istanbul reflects the underlying rot of society. Set in the course of one day and developed through flashbacks, the reader learns the toll on individuals and society in a world of deceit.” —Bill Cusumano, Square Books, Oxford, MS

Weird but Normal: Essays, by Mia Mercado
(HarperOne, $17.99)
“I adored this book! I laughed until I cried, I cringed in shared embarrassment, and I read entire essays out loud to anyone who would listen. Although almost any reader will find something to relate to in Mia Mercado’s writing, she will speak directly to the hearts of millennials who still remember their hilariously terrible first AIM screen names. For all the laughs, Weird but Normal also delivers heartfelt truths about issues ranging from racism in America to depression. Can’t wait to see what Mercado does next!”

For Ages 9 to 12

- Pages & Co.: The Lost Fairy Tales, by Anna James, Paola Escobar (Illus.) (Philomel Books, $16.99)
  “During a trip to Paris to visit Oskar’s father, Tilly and Oskar ignore the warnings from Tilly’s grandparents and wander into a collection of fairy tales… but nothing is normal inside these stories. Back at the London Underlibrary, new head librarian Melville Underwood is trying to bind books and restrict access to Bookwandering. Both Tilly and Oskar, along with Tilly’s grandparents and former librarian Amelia, are determined to find a way to stop him. Can they do it before it’s too late? The Lost Fairy Tales is the perfect follow-up to The Bookwanderers.” — Rebecca Minnock, Murder by the Book, Houston, TX

- New Kid, by Jerry Craft, Harper, $12.99
  “Beautifully written, musical, and lyrical, Private Lessons is a coming-of-age novel that pulled at my heartstrings. Claire’s relationship with her mother and father had me weeping early on in the book, and I admired and understood her drive to escape her suburban life. Her Filipino heritage is a part of the story but doesn’t define her, and the microaggressions that she faces are just like real life—cutting but ultimately unnoticed by anyone but the target. The lens of Claire’s journey is beautiful and brilliant and I enjoyed reading about her growing up.” — Jackie Jou, Mysterious Galaxy Books, San Diego, CA

The Ocean in Your Bathtub, by Seth Fishman, Isabel Greenberg (Illus.) (Greenwillow Books, $17.99) “This brightly illustrated story reminds everyone of their place in the water cycle. Tons of information fills the pages without feeling overwhelming. I loved the tone and design on this one—there's something for everyone to learn, whether they live near the ocean or far away.” —Dwan Dawson-Tape, Sundog Books, Santa Rosa Beach, FL
