Doodleville, by Chad Sell (Knopf Books for Young Readers, Hardcover, $20.99; Paperback, $12.99) “A fascinating premise combines with Chad Sell’s signature empathy in a sweet story about self-expression and friendship. Sell clearly admires both kids and the communal nature of art. A diverse cast of characters and a nuanced, compassionate view of childhood anxiety make this graphic novel stand out from its peers.” —Olivia Morris, Harvard Book Store, Cambridge, MA

For Teen Readers
House of Dragons, by Jessica Cluess (Random House Books for Young Readers, $18.99) “First dragons. Need I say more? Fine, then let’s throw five competitors from rival houses into a top-secret competition for the emperor’s throne where only one will emerge victorious... and the others will die. But this time the calling seems to have gone terribly wrong, and the candidates range from a stablehand to a bastard to a girl with illegal magic. Yet none can escape their fate, and so the games begin. There will be betrayal, there will be blood, and there will be fire. Cluess has created a sweeping start to a series that is sure to enthrall fans everywhere.” —Cailey Neuschaefer, Bookmarks, Winston-Salem, NC
