Leech, by Hiron Ennes (Tordotcom, $27.99) “This book slowly builds your sense of vertigo by combining body horror and gothic family drama. To find oneself empathizing with a parasite only heightens the sense of dis-ease. I’m still reeling.” —Keith Gaeske, East City Bookshop, Washington, DC

The Hero of This Book, by Elizabeth McCracken (Ecco, $26.99) “Is this a memoir or a novel? Does it matter? A very well-written story about memoir writing, following a writer who, in the wake of her mother’s death, travels to London. A great examination of the grieving process and what it does to art.” —Alex Einhorn, Fountain Bookstore, Richmond, VA
