Bark
Stories, by Lorrie Moore
(Vintage, 9780307308461, $13)

“Is there any living writer who can so effortlessly chronicle the messy absurdity, unintended humor, and quiet pathos of the human condition better than Lorrie Moore? I had been eagerly awaiting another short story collection from her, and Moore delivers. The Moore I’ve known and loved is back, replete with her trademark pithy one-liners, wry observations, wicked wit, and spot-on renderings of her character’s quirks, failings, and stubborn dreams.”

My Mistake
A Memoir, by Daniel Menaker
(Mariner Books, 9780544334533, $14.95)

“Being a longtime reader of the New Yorker, I found Menaker’s behind-the-scenes account of his career there absolutely riveting. The literary life is gutted and splattered for all to see. Menaker’s professional story is interspersed with his personal life, and both fed his writing career. His years at Random House and HarperCollins are also included, with fascinating details about contemporary authors and how a book is created. This is a must-read for booksellers and serious readers.”

Providence, 1970
(Clarkson Potter, 9780307718358, $15)

“During one incredible month in December 1970, the most influential personalities of French cuisine—James Beard, Simone Beck, Julia Child, M.F.K. Fisher, Judith Jones, and Richard Olney—gathered in the south of France to cook and eat together. Conversation centered on the future of cooking and sparks flew over the superiority and snobbery of French cuisine and the value of other ethnic cuisines, including American cooking. Barr’s great-nephew, has successfully pieced together her notes, journals, and letters to create a fascinating glimpse into culinary history. Deliciously entertaining reading!”

Report from the Interior
by Paul Auster
(Picador, 9781250052292, $16)

“Auster’s newest memoir is both unusual and beautiful. I was captivated by his odd mixture of memories, his blunt honesty, and his comforting tenderness. Whether describing his two favorite films in charming detail or reconstructing his experience with first love, Auster stokes flames of wonder at each turn. It is as though he is reliving each new experience and, to some extent, relearning from each as well. Highly recommended.”

Rosarito Beach
A Kay Hamilton Novel, by M.A. Lawson
(Signet, 9780451472519, $9.99)

“Once readers delve into this first book of a new series by the author of the popular Joe DeMarco novels, they will be swept into the world of Kay Hamilton, rugged DEA agent and osteopath, independent loner. Up against a tough drug lord in Mexico, Hamilton is able to hold her own until her own daughter is taken hostage. Then it demands all of Hamilton’s ingenuity and guts to find her daughter and set her free. Just how far will a mother go to save her child? I want the next Kay Hamilton soon, Mr. Lawson!”

Tatiana
An Arkady Renko Novel, by Martin Cruz Smith
(Simon & Schuster, 9781439140222, $16)

“Cruz Smith’s latest installment in the Arkady Renko series shows that he is in top form. Tatiana Petrovna, a daring reporter, has fallen—or was she pushed?—to her death. Renko starts investigating and is mesmerized by the reporter’s latest tapes. Digging deeper, he finds a connection to the town of Kaliningrad, and what he discovers there is explosive. This is vintage Cruz Smith—a great read with twists and turns until the very end.”

Through the Evil Days
A Mystery, by Julia Spencer-Fleming
(Minotaur Books, 9781250052535, $15.99)

“Police chief Russ Van Alstyne and Episcopal minister Clare Fergusson attempt to take their long-awaited honeymoon, only to become embroiled in a murder and child kidnapping case in upstate New York. A blizzard cuts off most normal means of communication as well as the roads, and the clock ticks as they attempt to locate the missing girl who won’t survive if she doesn’t get her medication in time. A wonderful addition to this outstanding series!”

—Connie Brooks, Battenkill Books, Cambridge, NY

The Trip to Echo Spring
On Writers and Drinking, by Olivia Laing
(Picador, 9781250063731, $16)

“The Trip to Echo Spring is the ideal blend of memoir, literary criticism, and travelogue. Fans of Joan Didion, Susan Sontag, and Geoff Dyer will soon list Olivia Laing as one of their favorite writers. Laing never glamorizes alcoholism; instead, she lifts the romantic veil off the stories we know about some of the most famous drunken scribes and shows just how devastating—but alluring—alcohol can be.”

Vanished
The Sixty-Year Search for the Missing Men of World War II, by Wil S. Hylton
(Riverhead Trade, 9781594632860, $16)

“Of the more than 56,000 servicemen and women of WWII whose resting place remains a mystery, two-thirds lie somewhere in the Pacific. Hylton’s fascinating account documents the search and recovery efforts of the devoted teams dedicated to finding these brave soldiers and bringing them home. By focusing on the crew of one missing B24 and the man who became obsessed with their fate, Hylton brings the story to a personal and poignant level.”
