At the Water’s Edge
A Novel, by Sara Gruen
“A trio of privileged Philadelphia socialites—Maddie, her husband, Ellis, and their friend, Hank—travel to the Scottish Highlands during WWII to prove the existence of the Loch Ness Monster. There, they find themselves among villagers dealing with the atrocities of a war that they have blithely ignored. Full of great period detail and richly drawn settings, At the Water’s Edge is another spellbinding tale from the author of Water For Elephants.”

Enter Pale Death
A Joe Sandilands Investigation, by Barbara Cleverly
“The tales of pre-World War II Scotland Yard’s Joe Sandilands are becoming addictive. Intrigue, political manipulations, the ever-present undercurrent of class differences, and the rising spectre of Nazism run throughout the series. Joe always expected to one day wed Dorcas and is alarmed to find that she has attached herself to her academic patron, Sir James Truelove. The detective is sent to Truelove’s family estate to investigate the death of Sir James’s wife. Murder investigations, just like true love, never run smoothly.”

Good Grief
Life in a Tiny Vermont Village, by Ellen Stimson

"After reading Stimson’s earlier book, Mud Season, I knew I wanted to at least be Facebook friends with her. Now that I’ve read Good Grief, I wish she were my next door neighbor because everyone needs fun, witty people like her in their lives. Stimson’s new memoir hits all the high points for readers—it is witty, philosophical, laugh-out-loud funny, and totally relatable. Irène
The Commandant Camille Verhoeven Trilogy, by Pierre Lemaitre

“This extremely suspenseful, fast-paced crime novel is not for the fainthearted. Its graphic violence may turn some readers away, but those who stick through the opening scenes will be richly rewarded by following Commander Verhoeven’s pursuit of a monstrous serial killer who models his gruesome crimes on scenes from classic crime novels. The intense action is enriched by scenes from Verhoeven’s domestic life, as well as the interactions among the distinct personalities of his Paris detective squad.”

Wait for Signs
Twelve Longmire Stories, by Craig Johnson

“Sometimes short stories hit the spot, especially when they’re set in a favorite world. For years, Johnson has gifted his friends with stories at Christmas, and this anthology has brought them together for the first time, along with one new story. For the uninitiated, this is a wonderful introduction into Walt Longmire’s world, and for those already familiar with Absaroka County, Wyoming, these snippets of time spent with favorite characters will be like little vacations, a series of short visits with old friends. Sometimes funny, sometimes touching, and always entertaining.”

Wolf Winter
A Novel, by Cecilia Ekbäck

“Maija, her husband Paavo, and their daughters, Frederika and Dorotea, leave Finland to settle in Lapland in the beautiful area near Blackåsen Mountain. One day, Frederika discovers the body of one of the villagers. Was he killed by wolves or was he murdered? What powers does the mountain have? The harsh ‘wolf winter’ brings the settlers together to survive, but what tragedies, secrets, customs, and vengeance are they hiding? When Maija and her family arrived at the mountain, readers were told, ‘This was the kind of land that didn’t know how to let go.’ Ekbäck’s intriguing tale of Swedish Lapland in 1717 gives insight into the land and people of the far north and is also hard to let go.”
