The Dry: A Novel
By Jane Harper

(Flatiron Books, 9781250105622, $15.99)

“Twenty years ago Federal Agent Aaron Falk left his childhood home in the farming community of Kileweea under a cloud of suspicion. The only thing that saved him from a murder charge was the alibi provided by his best friend, Luke. Now Aaron is going home to attend Luke’s funeral. Luke murdered his wife and son, and then took his own life, sparing only his baby daughter. But Luke’s parents and Sergeant Greg Raco, question the official narrative. As Aaron delves into the secrets hidden in the drought-suffering community, tempers flare. This gritty mystery is well-written with clever plot twists and strong characters.”

The Girl Before: A Novel
By JP Delaney

(Ballantine Books, 9780451479060, $16)

“Immediate guarantee: You will NOT be able to put this book down. The Girl Before unfolds through the perspectives of two women: Emma (then) and Jane (now). It chronicles their lives in the stunningly and scarily minimalist home One Folgate Street and its aloof yet magnetic owner. Delaney spins a masterful story that epitomizes the notion that you never really know everything about anyone. Fans of Gone Girl and The Girl on the Train will enjoy this book.”

The Hearts of Men: A Novel
By Nicholas Butler

(Ecco, 9780062469684, $16.99)

“Two of Butler’s strengths are his rich Wisconsin settings and his ability to probe the depths of men’s friendships. His new novel, an epic about three generations at a Boy Scout camp, takes that to the next level. It starts with a recollection of 1965. In Wisconsin, this is it! The Lonely Hearts Hotel is the charming story of Rose and Pierrot, two children raised in a Montreal orphanage in the early 20th century. O’Neill traces their romance from their childhood of entertaining rich people in their homes to their less salubrious post-orphanage careers. When Rose and Pierrot meet again as adults, magic happens—but can this magic survive the rigors of the real world? Fantastic and fabulous in the truest sense of both words.”

The Midnight Cool: A Novel
By Lydia Peelie

(Harper Perennial, 9780062475473, $15.99)

“The journey of middle-aged swindler Billy and his young, idealistic partner Charles is a journey into the history and heart of the oft-maligned American dream. As the nation considers whether it will join World War I, Billy and Charles must weigh the merits of freedom against patriotic obligation, their life on the road against the temptation of putting down roots, and their diverging desires against the love and loyalty they bear for each other. As Billy says, ‘I reckon that’s the beauty and the shame of it, all at once.’ Peeli’s exploration of this beauty and shame is exquisitely wrought, richly populated, and ultimately devastating. I finished the novel in tears.”

“The Most Dangerous Place on Earth: A Novel
By Thomas Perry

(Mysterious Press, 9780062475473, $16)

“Dan Chase is a wealthy old man living a quiet life after the death of his wife and his daughter’s move to another part of the country. But wait—he is being followed, and then his house is broken into and he has to kill the intruder. Next, the old man turns to his ‘go bag’ as it seems he has many identities, stash of currency, and a plan to disappear. There are secrets to be discovered all throughout this tale and Perry keeps readers wondering what will come next. This is definitely one of Perry’s best!”

The Women in the Castle: A Novel
By Jessica Shattuck

(William Morrow Paperbacks, 9780062563675, $16.99)

“Three war widows and their children help each other survive at the end of World War II in this engaging novel filled with rich period details. Their husbands died as members of the resistance, but aside from that common thread, Marianne, Benita, and Ania bring different backgrounds to their makeshift home in the castle’s kitchen. They also face repercussions from past choices and current secrets. Jessica Shattuck brings us into their world and shows us that the rules for love and loyalty are different in wartime.”
